Try Something New This Season

By Wendy Smeltz, Center Manager
Evet Hexamer, Asst. Center Manager

Many of us have annual holiday traditions. This holiday season looks different and some traditions may not be an option, but it can still be a joyous occasion! We hope you are able to enjoy some of your traditions, but we encourage you to use this time to try something new.

There are many ways to celebrate the holidays. These may not be new to you but we hope it gives you some ideas. You can drive around town and view the beautiful lights, wear matching pajamas, play a new board game, or get some new decorations. If you are creative, you can make decorations! We are all spending more time at home, but you can use that time to practice creativity. Handmade holiday cards or homemade gifts are wonderful. Remember it doesn't have to be perfect, it's about the love that goes into it. Who doesn't like to receive something homemade? If you're not creative, perhaps you could perform random acts of kindness every day leading up to Christmas.

Don't forget about yourself! This has been a difficult year and we all need to take care of ourselves. Treat yourself every day over the holidays. This doesn't have to be expensive. Make yourself a special dinner, take a bubble bath, sort old photographs, or start a journal - try to write about something positive each day.

Of course, let's not forget about celebrating with family and friends, even if traveling and gathering restrictions keep you from seeing them in person. You can host a "digital" party. Technology does not have to be scary and we are here to help.

Holidays can be a difficult time for some, and the current situation makes it even harder. Check on those who may feel lonely. A phone call or card can really brighten someone's holiday season.

Here at The Center we will miss coming together with you for our holiday celebrations, but we'll be trying new things to enjoy the time with you. We hope to see you at a drive-thru lunch!

Happy Holidays and stay safe!
